Request for Conference - Inventory System Discrepancies Following Large Event

From

Janelle Gardner, General Merchandise Supervisor

To

Store Manager

Date

June 4, 2025

Dear Store Manager,

I am writing to formally request a brief conference to discuss findings from our most recent inventory reconciliation following a large promotional event. During routine physical counts conducted post-event, I identified several discrepancies between on-hand quantities and what our system reflects as available stock.

Summary of Findings

Hoodie Navy L: 15 system / 12 physical (-3)

Lanyard Blue: 30 system / 24 physical (-6)

Cap Gray Adj.: 7 system / 3 physical (-4)

Mug Gold Logo: 4 system / 6 physical (+2)

Impact on Daily Sales & Operations

Accurate inventory supports order fulfillment, timely reorders, reliable availability information, and more accurate sales forecasting. Overstated inventory may lead staff to commit to orders that cannot be fulfilled, while understated inventory may delay reorder activity.

Proposed Discussion Topics

Root cause review, post-event reconciliation procedures, scanning practices during high-volume periods, and a recurring system-audit schedule.

I would appreciate the opportunity to meet at your earliest convenience this week to review the tracking report and discuss corrective measures. Findings have been documented with item-level detail, and recommendations are prepared for discussion.

Please let me know your availability, and I will coordinate accordingly.

Respectfully,

Janelle Gardner

General Merchandise Supervisor

On-Hand vs. System Discrepancies: Operational Impact

- Data Comparison
- Discrepancy Analysis
- Recommendation Development
- Written Reporting

Context

As a General Merchandise Supervisor, recurring discrepancies were observed between physical on-hand inventory counts and system-recorded availability. These gaps were often more pronounced following large-scale events such as orientation weeks, homecoming, and alumni weekends.

Key Observations

- 01 - HOODIE NAVY L

System shows 15 units; physical count reveals 12. A 3-unit gap may indicate unrecorded sales or misplaced stock.
- 02 - LANYARD BLUE

System reflects 30 units while only 24 are on hand. The 6-unit discrepancy is significant for a high-turnover item.
- 03 - CAP GRAY ADJ.

System shows 7 units while only 3 are physically present, creating a substantial variance that may affect fulfillment.
- 04 - MUG GOLD LOGO

On-hand quantity (6) exceeds the system quantity (4), which may indicate receiving or return activity that was not fully recorded.

Operational Impact

When the system overstates availability, staff may promise items that are not actually in stock, creating service recovery situations and lost sales. When physical stock exceeds system counts, reorder activity and reporting may also be affected.

During peak traffic events, the pace of transactions can increase the likelihood of record mismatches, especially when items are sold from displays, used for promotions, or transferred without immediate system updates.

Recommendation. Implement a post-event reconciliation protocol and conduct a brief management review of identified variances. This would help align physical counts with system records, support more accurate availability information, and improve future event planning and forecasting.
